

Tuesday-Heidelberg

On Tuesday, we went to Heidelberg together and spent an exciting and varied day there. In the morning, we traveled together by bus, which was already a great opportunity to spend time with each other and get in the mood for the day.

First, we visited a university, which many of us found very interesting. However, it wasn't about learning something about studying ourselves, but rather about getting an impression of the surroundings and the campus.

After that, we went on a hike together to a castle. The way there was partly exhausting, but it was definitely worth it. Once we reached the top, we were rewarded with a beautiful view, which we all really enjoyed. The landscape around Heidelberg is truly impressive.

In between, we also had a meal together, and the food was very delicious. That lifted the mood even more and gave us new energy.

At the end of the day, we traveled back together by bus.

Overall, it was a very successful trip, where we had a great time and, above all, strengthened our sense of community.
